

The relation morphism preserves the differential, bracket and quadratic obstruction.

The commuting square compares obstruction classes; the two DGLAs need not be quasi-isomorphic.